INCLUDED IN THE PACKAGE

What bookworm wouldn't drop everything for a chance to stroll past the very cafés where Hemingway and F. Scott Fitzgerald met for cocktails? Or to locate the hotel where Oscar Wilde cleverly quipped from his death bed: "This hideous wallpaper and I are fighting a duel to the death—either it goes, or I do!"

Get ready to travel back to a time when Paris was the muse for some of the most genius literary minds. Draw inspiration from the Left Bank's quaint streets, café terraces, and romantic hum of Parisian life just like your idols did back in the day. You're in for a treat because the Latin Quarter and St Germain district in Paris haven't changed much at all, providing a glimpse into the glory days of great literature.

Who better to guide you than one of our passionate French literary experts? They've taken the time to seek out those mythic spots where the pulse of these geniuses still beats on. Turn back a few pages in history and revisit some of the literary VIPs who left their mark on Paris: the Romantics of the 19th century, the Lost Generation between the World Wars, and the Beat Generation of the '50s and '60s to name a few.

Complete the experience with a free coffee break in a typical Left Bank café, offering a chance to chat with your knowledgeable guide and share great novel recommendations. Keep your wallet in your pocket—this caffeine boost is on us!

You will meet the guide outside the legendary Café de Flore, located in the neighborhood of Saint Germain-des-Prés. You will walk in the direction of the Left bank where the intellectual personalities of the Lost Generation used to meet each other, such as Gertrude Stein, Ernest Hemingway or F. Scott Fitzgerald.

The tour will end by visiting the stunning Shakespeare and Company bookshop. This ancient medieval monastery contains numerous English-language books. Your guide will tell you about the amazing history of the place. You will experience a great moment upstairs by discovering a captivating literary atmosphere.

Departure Time: 3:00 pm (Wednesday and Saturday)

Meeting Point: In front of the Café de Flore 172 boulevard Saint-Germain 75006 Paris
